Treasures of Irish Christianity: To the Ends of the Earth Salvador Ryan

Taking its cue from this year's celebration of the 1,400th anniversary of the death of Columbanus, this third volume of Treasures of Irish Christianity looks at 'the Irish abroad' from the earliest centuries to the present day, with a special emphasis on the historical contribution of Irish missionaries. Topics include a seventeenth century Church of Ireland clergyman's account of being captured by North African pirates; the Irish priest who debated with the American abolitionist John Brown before his execution in 1859; Irish military chaplains in the First World War; the Irish missionary who met Mao Tse-tung, and much more.
